

Several years ago, there was a vibrant young child, that was playing, I believe in the streets, but it had rained severely, and this young child ended up acquiring an infection called “Ameba,” which one acquires when dirty water is inhaled and the virus attacks, the Brain of the person.

I have often wondered about cases such as this one, Where a family and friends are praying and placing all of their faith in God, and the loved one dies, and it appears that their prayers were in vain, or that our Lord failed them.

After years of studying, the bible and searching, God's heart for answers, I believe that, the best that I can come up with, is that Zachary Reyna, was called home by God, because he wouldn't of been the same person, if he would've survived.

Therefore God, in His mercies, alleviates further suffering from all parties affected, by calling home the person involved, because the person will have immediate peace, and so that their family and loved ones, can begin the healing process, that only time can sooth.

From what I've read Zachary and his family are Christians, and put their faith in our Lord, so at some point, they will all be reunited with Zachary and be perpetually in the presence of our Lord and Savior Christ Jesus.

Friends, God will NEVER let you down.

Yes, I agree that the sting of death will never be taken away, but as Christians, we can have peace knowing, that our loved one's, are with our lord in heaven, where they suffer no more.

May our Lord Jesus Christ, Bless you and your grieving family and friends, but let us not forget what Jesus said...nothing can separate us from the love of Christ, not even death!

Hope this comforts anyone, whom may have lost a loving person! May God keep all of you & yours! In His name, Amen & Amen.

In Jesus' Mighty Name !
